WISHING.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Of all the amusements of the mind,
From logic down to fi-hing,
There is not one that you can find
So very cheap as "wishing."
A very choice diversion, too,
If we but rightly use it,
And not, as we are apt to do,
Pervert it and abuse it.

I wish—a common wish indeed—
My purse was something fatter,
That I might cheer the child of need,
And not my pride to flatter;
That I might make oppression reel
As gold can only make it,
And break the tyrant's rod of steel
As gold can only break it.

I wish that joy and love,
And every human passion
That has its origin above
Would come and keep in fashion;
That scorn and jealousy and hate,
And every false emotion,
Were buried fifty fathoms deep
Beneath the waves of ocean.

I wish that friends were always true
And motives always pure;
I wish the good were not so few,
I wish the bad were fewer;
I wish the parsons would ne'er forget
To heed their pious teaching;
I wish that practicing was not
So different from preaching.

I wish that modest worth might be
Appraised with truth and candor,
I wish that innocence were free
From treachery and slander;
I wish that men their vows would mind,
That women ne'er were rovers;
I wish that wives were always kind
And husbands always lovers.

I wish, in fine, that joy and mirth,
And every good ideal,
May come, erewhile, throughout the earth,
To be the glorious real;
Till God shall every creature bless
With His supremest blessing,
And hope be lost in happiness,
And wishing be possessing.

The Elopement Tragedy Near Albany.

The details of this case, which has been already briefly reported have come to hand. The Troy Times of Monday contains the history in the whole affair previous to the fatal meeting, from which is gathered the following particulars:

Judson W. Palmer, aged 25 years, had been "keeping company," for a long time, with Caroline Stephens, a young lady aged 16 years. They were finally betrothed, when the father of Miss Stephens, upon hearing of it, determined to "break up the match." Mr. Stephens then undertook to keep his daughter closely confined to the house, and forbade Palmer coming to see her. The young people, however, managed to send love missiles to each other by the neighbors. They had made three unsuccessful attempts to elope and become united in marriage, but the watchfulness of Mr. Stephens prevented this consummation until Thursday last, when Palmer received word from Caroline that her parents were absent, and the long-wished for opportunity had come. Palmer immediately made arrangements to meet her at the neighboring church with a wagon, whence they both proceeded to Squire Green's house, and were married according to law. They were invited to stay there but Caroline was anxious to escape to New Baltimore to a sister of Palmer's. Her father returned home in the meantime, and finding the cage empty and the bird flown, started in pursuit, having guessed where the couple had gone. The road from Coymans to to New Baltimore is a straight one, and pursued and pursuer could see each other a long way off. Stephens being on horseback gained steadily on the runaways, until coming so close upon them they took refuge in the nearest house—that of Mr. Electa Shear. Palmer hurriedly explained the situation to Mrs. Shear, and asked for a room in which himself and wife might hide. They entered a small bed-room, but had scarcely fastened the door when Stephens burst it open upon them, and, being a powerful man, he seized Palmer by the throat, and held him as in a vice upon the bed, saying at the same time "I'll finish you now." Palmer states that, believing his life in danger, he took out a revolver and held it in his left hand and warded off a terrible blow with it, but Stephens immediately wrenched it from him and put himself in an attitude to shoot. Caroline then cried out: "Father, don't kill him!" and ran out of the room down stairs. A terrible struggle for life then ensued between the two men. Palmer had a second revolver, which he took out, and while lying on his back on the floor with Stephens on him, pulling and biting his ears off, he fired at random shot—as from his position he could not see where the ball would go. This shot was the third one fired, and it proved fatal, for in an instant more the lifeless form of Stephens lay heavily upon Palmer's breast. The ball had entered Stephens' shoulder, passed down through the lungs, heart and liver, and lodged in the stomach. Palmer then extricated himself from under the dead body of his adversary and rushed down stairs and into the yard, where he met Stephen's son. He showed the latter his revolver and stated that he only wanted to be let alone. He then took his wife into the wagon and continued his journey toward his sister's house. An inquest was held upon the body of Stephens, and the jury brought in a verdict that the shooting was done in self-defence. The coroner instructed them that such a verdict could not be received, and they then returned a second verdict merely announcing death from shooting. Palmer was taken into custody, and is now in the Albany jail. His examination was commenced yesterday. Stephens was in the neighborhood of seventy years of age. Both have heretofore been highly respected and have numerous friends. The villagers in the vicinity of where the affair occurred are wild with excitement, but are divided as to justifying the crime.

A FRIGHTFUL PICTURE.

There has been of late some fearful revelation of the moral degeneracy of the "lower order" in England, but a picture more appalling than that presented to us of the state of things in Liverpool it is hardly possible to conceive. An inquiry was a short time back instituted by the town council into the cause of the excessive mortality in that town, and that the report of the Commissioners draws a picture at which humanity must shudder. The following extract from a London paper will give some idea of the "Slough of Despond" into which that celebrated emporium has been converted.

"For four years has an epidemic of typhus raged with increasing virulence among the working population of Liverpool. Let cholera once take hold of the [illegible] of fallen humanity, and it can scarcely be expected to leave them until it has sucked the life blood from thousands. Children go drunk to school—ragged schools. Women for love of drink sell every stitch they wear, saving just the last shred of linen, and then—heaven help the wretches—they sell their hair! This is the evidence of the Rev Father Nugent, who speaks of one woman, the mother of seven children, who sold her hair to a barber for a quart of beer. Women have been 'had up' for drunkenness 111 times or more. In one court the women were discovered 'all drunk' one Sunday afternoon. The children club their pence together on a Saturday night; to have a 'spree' and get gloriously inebriated like their seniors. The master of the Hibernian School says, 'You might as well attempt to empty the Mersey with a tea cup as to apply genuine Christian instruction while this flood of intemperance is overwhelming us.' Children die who were never born, says Father Nugent. Rents go unpaid, for the landlord fears to be pressing lest his tenants should pull the house down! 'I have four houses in Henderson street' says an agent, and there is not a piece of timber left in them. They (the occupiers) will take away the cupboards, the staircases and the very slate off the roofs, and we cannot catch them.' We just quote one more horror. A tradesman and his wife ruined themselves by drink. She fell ill and lay in indescribable filth on her sick bed for months. On a Saturday she died, and remained unburied until Thursday. The husband that day obtained ten shillings to secure the necessary attendance, but instead of devoting the money to proper purposes went and got drunk with it.—He went home in that state and slept with the corpse. On Friday some persons sent a hearse to take away the body but when the men saw no person to go with the funeral, 'they took her out and threw her down in the room again, where she lay until the police had her buried on the following Saturday.' As a sequel we are told an old woman, who lived underneath was so much shocked that she died the same night.' Such is the account which Liverpool gives of itself.

And all this under that arristocratic rule of which the "upper classes" of English society are wont to boast so loudly, and of whose excellencies they are so prone to vaunt as presenting a marked contrast to the vices of a democratic government.

Desperate Encounter with a Deer.

The Eauclair, Wis Free Press gives the following account of an encounter with a deer, which occurred near Mud Creek, in that vicinity one day last week: "One of the most daring encounters incident to hunting—though fortunately resulting in nothing serious—that we have heard of for a long time, occurred in the vicinity of Mud Creek last week. Mr Ed Nichols, formerly of this place, started out one morning with his dog, through a piece of woods near his farm. Scarcely had he entered the forest, over a mile from his habitation, when suddenly up sprang a large buck from his concealment, and confronting him face to face for an instant, made a fearful dash at him. Mr. Nichols though having no weapon of defence never once thought of retreating, but firmly grasped one of the animal's gigantic horns while the dog took hold of his throat. For a while the struggle between the three was most fearful—one moment the man had the deer down, but the deer possessed of that dexterity and nimbleness peculiar to them, sprang to his feet again and again, flinging every endeavor in twirling his antagonists around. Mr N. dare not lose his hold and the only hope to save his life was by encouraging the dog which meanwhile, hung on to the buck's throat with canine tenacity. To worry the buck to exhaustion with the help of the dog, was the only means of conquering his adversary, and after a struggle was finally success[illegible] and got a club and [illegible] the animal [illegible] At the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

SALEM, N. C.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1866.

☞ We are now making out our accounts for subscriptions, job work and advertising, and, in the course of a few weeks, we will place unsettled notes and accounts in the hands of a collector.

THE VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

We will publish a full list of the members of the Legislature and a statement of the Governor's vote, as soon as received.—Seventy-eight Counties heard from giving Worth, 31,028. Dockery, 9,873.

THAT RAILROAD.—We were informed, some time since, that application would be made to the ensuing Legislature, for a charter for a Railroad from High Point to Salem. We were pleased to hear it.

In this connection, it should be remembered that "procrastination is the thief of time," and want of decision has ruined many a man, and many a promising enterprise has fallen still-born for want of a little courage to commence and carry it through.

This place and the whole back country would be benefited by the construction of this Railroad. And we ask again, who will father the Salem and High Point Railroad, prove a public benefactor, and immortalize himself.

Let us have the charter, and if the stock cannot be taken at home, let us try another market. The paramount object is to have the road, and, if we cannot help ourselves, let others help us.

LET POLITICS ALONE AND GO TO WORK.—We see that the spirit to go into manufacturing cotton goods is abroad in the South. Old England and New England owe much of their wealth to manufactures; and here in the South, where water power is abundant, the staple grown, and the climate delightful, we see no reason why that business should not be profitable, if prudently managed.

Georgia and Alabama are pushing forward in the good work; factories destroyed during the war are being rebuilt, and new ones in course of erection.

The agricultural community is also bestirring itself, and if nothing intervenes, in the course of a few years, but few traces of the late war will be left.

GOING EAST.—The Goldsboro News says, quite a number of hardy looking men from Cabarrus, Randolph, Guilford, Orange, Alamance and Wake counties, are looking after farms in the Eastern part of the State.

TOBACCO INSPECTOR.—Mr. James F Jones has been appointed Inspector of Tobacco, Snuff and Cigars, for the counties of Davidson, Forsyth, Stokes and Surry.

☞ Postoffice address, Salem, Forsyth Co. N. C.

☞ J. J. Raper, Esq., presented us with a few very fine turnips, not so large as those noticed last week, but better flavored.

WINSTON SENTINEL.—Capt. George M. Mathes has been associated with J. W. Alspaugh, Esq., in the editorial management of this paper. Capt. Mathes was an officer in the Confederate army and is said to be a gentleman of talents.

☞ GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK for November came duly to hand. It is, as usual, very entertaining and instructive, and stands at the head of the fashion papers.

☞ HARPER'S MAGAZINE for November is also upon our table, containing its usual variety of choice literature.

CANADA THISTLE.—The Salisbury Banner urges upon the citizens of that place, the destruction of the Canada thistle, which is spreading over the streets of Salisbury, and warns them "to be careful not to allow the weed to get a start in their gardens, as it ruins the vegetation and will soon root out every other growth."

This thistle is also spreading rapidly in this place, and every means should be used for its extirpation. It should even now, as late in the season as it is, be carefully pulled up by the roots and cast into the fire. The proper time to destroy it is before the seeds mature.

The investigation of the charges of official misconduct against the police commissioners of Baltimore, commenced before the Governor, at Annapolis on Friday. The counsel for the commissioners were present. The decision of the Governor will be announced on Wednesday.

The gold excitement in the upper counties of Georgia is on the increase. Rich ore has been found in Lumpkin and Hall Counties. Mines are being sold at high figures.

The Winston Sentinel of last week, has a column upon the subject of the late election in Forsyth, in which its display of patriotism, love for the dear people and self-abnegation, knows no bounds, apparently!—But, after all, when pecuniary trouble comes to overwhelm the people, and "when the question of sink or swim is the issue, we (says the Sentinel) always prefer to swim," and let every body else go to the bottom, of course, is understood.

We admire the Sentinel's candor, for once.

Under the late defeat and rebuke from the people of Forsyth, the Sentinel consoles itself "that the successful party at the present election is not in a majority," judging from the small vote polled. We can assure the Sentinel that, if a full vote had been cast, its defeat would have been still more signal. However, poor comfort is better than none.

But what will Messrs. Charles Teague and Waddell say to the following sentence from our neighbor at the court house: "Had there been conservatives in the field for whom the people would have felt willing to vote, they might have been elected by a majority almost, if not quite, as large as the entire vote of the successful candidates."

Well may Messrs. Teague & Waddell exclaim, "save us from our friends!"

Again, says the Sentinel, of the members elected to the Legislature: "They were the choice of the squad or clique of capitalists in the country who controlled the people and dictated to them what they should do and for whom they should vote. We knew very well that what these masters said the servants would obey. The masters dictate and the servants obey; they tap upon the nests, and like young birds, their subjects open their mouths and swallow whatever is given them."

A rare compliment to the people of Forsyth, is'nt it! The Sentinel calls the people servants and subjects obeying masters, and compares them to a nest of young birds, who open their mouths and blindly swallow anything!

Once upon a time, a prominent politician in an adjoining county, compared the people to a nest of young birds, which nest he only need tap, when they would open their mouths and swallow any thing he gave them. That expression killed him politically. Hope our neighbor may survive the unjust reflection upon the intelligence of the good people of Forsyth.

Elections Next Tuesday.

Elections occur in twelve states next Tuesday, the 6th of November. They are to elect ninety one representatives to Congress. In the present Congress their delegations are divided politically as follows:

| | Dems. | Reps. |
|---|---|---|
| Massachusetts | — | 10 |
| New York, | 10 | 21 |
| New Jersey, | 3 | 2 |
| Delaware, | 1 | — |
| Maryland, | 2 | 3 |
| Illinois, | 3 | 11 |
| Michigan, | — | 6 |
| Wisconsin | 1 | 5 |
| Minnesota, | — | 2 |
| Missouri, | 1 | 8 |
| Kansas, | — | 1 |
| Nevada, | — | 1 |
| Total, | 21 | 70 |

The Election for members of Congress appears to have been treated with sovereign indifference by the voters of Texas. At Galveston many of the principal citizens were not aware an election was to come off or had to take place. In two precincts the polls were not opened. At Houston, one sixth of the regular vote was polled. At San Antonio, only 104 out of 1500 votes were cast, and so on elsewhere.

NATIONAL BANKS.—The whole number of National Banks now in operation is 1,658, with an aggregate circulation of $294 836,689, of which amount notes valued at $159 885, were issued last week by the Acting Comptroller of the Currency. Treasurer Spinner has in possession United States Bonds amounting to $836,883,550, as securities for circulating notes of National Banks; and bonds valued at $29,288,950, as security for deposits of public moneys in banks designed as public depositories. Total securities held, $376,122,500.

Professor Ferguson, of the National Observatory at Washington, is making arrangements for scientific observations of the meteoric display which is set down for Nov 12th. Some peace it on the night of the 14th. It is predicted the display will be unusually brilliant.

Lieutenant Braine, who claims to have held a commission in the Confederate navy, and who seized the steamer Chesapeake during the war, has been indicted by the Grand Jury for murder and piracy. He will be tried at the next session of the U. S. Circuit Court.

Local and Miscellaneous.

J. H. B. - - - - - - - - - - LOCAL EDITOR.

A REGULAR MORNING MARKET is what we Salemites ought to have instituted, for our own convenience and for the sake of domestic economy.

If we had a market of this kind, established after the fashion of those belonging to the cities, we would certainly find it much easier to secure eatables than we do now. As it is, every family must depend on the uncertain faithfulness of bargainers and good roads for the provisions required by the cooks, who, when your waffles are hard and unpalatable, snappishly remind you that "the butter-woman didn't come;" and so it often happens that the "meat man" is not punctual, etc., etc. But if we have a morning market,—a place where the country people can range their carts and vend their produce—each family could send out every morning and buy just the amount of provision necessary for the day, and not be troubled with the stowing away of surplus pounds. By this plan, those who find it an inconvenience, as well as an expense, to keep a cow could get fresh milk, cream, etc., and they who have no yards for the good accommodation of fowls could find nice fresh eggs, without any trouble; for all such things, finding a ready sale, would be abundantly offered.

It is, perhaps, useless to discuss the obvious merits of such an institution as we recommend, and we only jot down this item for the digestion of the people and the enterprising officials of our model town government.

IF ACORNS could be substituted for wheat as conveniently as they are now used in the place of corn, we would indeed be a fortunate people. Mast is remarkably abundant throughout this section, and many of our townsmen use it for hog food altogether, buying it at from twenty-five to thirty cents per bushel.

Judging by the almost unprecedented scarcity of wild pigeons hereabouts, acorns must be plentiful elsewhere.

We'll be charitable, and say nothing more about those street-mutilating hogs as long as these acorns afford such a relief from hard times, but when this opportune manna is all devoured or rendered useless, we intend to produce our "sharp stick" again! See if we don't.

"A BARKING DOG NEVER BITES" is an old proverb—but we were strongly tempted to depart from our faith in the [illegible] saying when we passed up town the other evening and were unceremoniously assailed by one of the most provoking specimens of the canine breed we ever laid eyes on. This pup belongs to— But we won't tell the owners name if he will promise to take a hint from this slight allusion. In fact, we have heard it whispered that if the insect in question is not kept in the back yard his funeral will be appointed for some dark night! Fact.

"Zephyrs come to serenade us
In the summer and the spring,
And their sighing music soundeth
Like an angel's rustling wing."

So sang old Chaucer, in the days of long ago—and no doubt the ancient bard was inspired to that poetic fete by listening to a vocal serenade like unto the one we heard in the "wee sma' hours" of last Saturday night. No doubt.

FOR the gratification of our numerous flattering friends, we will head this column, next week, with a picture of ourself! To accomplish this we have gone to the immense expense of importing from the city of Dadbag the world-applauded artist Professor Noonenosehoo. This gentleman does not take photographs, or anything of that sort.—His pictures are celebrated as the Poorresstssorrtoffgrraphs! We beg our multitudinous admirers to desist from troubling us with letters asking for likenesses of our personal pulchritude. All shall be supplied as we promise.

YE LOCAL received a sweetly perfumed little note several days ago, written in the daintiest feminine chirography, which reads thus:

SALEM, Oct. 30th.

Dear Mr. Local:—Please tell me, if a lady meets a male acquaintance on the street, does politeness require her to bow first?

Well, this is a rather hackneyed subject, and editors are certainly the wrong class of men to consult on etiquette; but we answer this query, without hesitation, in the affirmative. Yes, a lady should always be first at recognition on the street. Confidentially, we'd like to know the author of this little opoponax-scented epistle!—[Write soon again.]

ANOTHER RUNAWAY occurred last Monday, opposite the store of Pfohl & Stockton. One Mr. White, who drove a horse belonging to Mr. E. Clemmons, was unexpectedly invited, by said nag, to spend a few minutes in a neighboring mud-puddle; which invitation was reluctantly but quietly accepted.

IN OUR last week's estimate of the amount of dried fruit shipped from this place, we omitted to mention the name of the Hege B[illegible], to whom we were under the impression that Mr. Vogler had purchased and exported their stock. We since learn that this firm sent off about five hundred and twenty thousand six hundred and eighty pounds, (520,680,) including dried apples, black berries, and alder berries.

ON the evening of the 31st, Mr. John Hicks, whilst engaged in blasting rock, near Mickey's mill, was seriously hurt by the accidental ignition of powder.

A gentleman from Surry county says that snow fell there, on the 29th ultimo.

We have been told that there is a large pigeon roost near Mt. Airy—between that place and the Blue Ridge.

"BLACK VS ITALIAN BEES," of our last issue, has a rather caustic reply in the following communication from "J. W. H." We volunteer to assert that "J. B." will defend his position like a Greek:

ITALIAN vs BLACK BEES.

SALEM, Oct. 30th, 1866.

MR. EDITOR:—In your last issue I saw an article on the bee, emanating from Mr. J. B., a gentleman of Salem, who has devoted a good deal of his time to the culture of the bee. I read his article very carefully, and I must say that I did not see the first idea advanced for the information of those who are about to engage in the culture of the bee. His whole article was in reply to a few facts you, as local editor, saw cause to make known in regard to the Italian bee.

Now, when a man takes up a subject to give information to the public, he should advance some facts by which they would be benefited Mr. J B. has very crude ideas on the subject of the honey-bee; although it is true he has had a quarter of a century's experience, but to very little purpose. He says that, some eight years ago, he was a very liberal contributor to northern periodicals, and that his articles had stood the test of Northern critics. Now, I had supposed, from his article in the Press, that there was some merit in his contributions, and so I put myself to some trouble to investigate the matter, but I could not find one single idea advanced in them but what the most common bee-keeper in the country knows.

What convinces me that there is no merit in them is the fact that in all the books and journals published on the subject of the bee, no mention is made of his productions. We can not pick up a book or periodical on the subject of the bee but what we find such names as Dzierson, Huber, Von Siebola, Quinby, Langstroth, and a host of others, quoted as authorities, whose experience and observation have gone far to unfold some of the mysteries of the bee. I am a little astonished that Mr. J. B. should think, for one moment, of forcing his crude ideas upon the public, when such a man as Dzierson, who has done more within the last ten years to bring to light some of the hidden mysteries of the bee than any other man since the time of Aristotle, some two thousand years ago, directly opposes him. Yet, we find just such men as Mr J B, who will not be convinced of any facts set forth by Messrs. Dzierson, Langstroth and others.

Messrs. Dzierson and Langstroth have had the benefit of all the modern improvements in the bee hive, therefore, their facilities for thoroughly investigating the subject have been far superior to Mr J. B's.

Now, what light do we expect to be thrown on the subject by Mr. J. B, with his little old box hives, with a few pieces of glass in the rear, four by six? His prejudices against the Italian bees are such that he will not experiment or inform himself upon their nature and habits. Therefore, with his crude ideas and limited experience, it makes him too proud of his knowledge of the bee to listen to reason; but, with his little old box hive, he wants to occupy a position alongside of such men as Langstroth, Quinby, Wagner, Dzierson and others I could name.

He disclaims, in his article, that the Italian bee is any better than the common bee. I will endeavor to show that they are. In the first place, they are superior to the common bee in gathering honey, from the fact that they have a longer proboscis, and are thereby enabled to gather honey from sources that the common bee cannot. They commence much earlier in the spring and continue later in the fall They can gather honey from the red clover where it is very abundant, when the common bee cannot.

It is claimed by all scientific bee-keepers, both in Europe and America, that the Italian bees are more prolific than the common bees, because the great industry and alertness of the workers produce a greater general activity within the hive, thereby exciting the queen to more frequent and regular egg laying, thus reciprocally stimulating the gathering impulse in the worker, and the procreative impulse in the queen. An Italian queen lays fully as many eggs in two years as a common queen does in three. Therefore, the bee keepers would, by the introduction of the Italian queen, increase their stock one-third, which is a great consideration, where one wants to make bee culture profitable

When the season opens in the spring, the Italian bees go forth in search of honey long before the common bee bestirs itself. This is very much in their favor, because then is the time we lose the greatest number of our stocks for the want of honey and pollen. The Italian bee can endure our cold winters much better than the common bee. This fact has been thoroughly tested among the Alps.

Another superiority which I claim for the Italian bee is their disposition to swarm early in the season, which gives them more time to fill their hives with honey and gather a surplus for their owner.

The Italian bees are the most fearless and intrepid defenders of their own stores. They are much more vigilant than the common bees, and not so easily circumvented. Every stranger that seeks entrance into their hives, whether of Italian or common origin, is at once arrested and repelled or slain, and I doubt if an Italian colony, possessing a healthy queen, could be conquered by any assailants.

The mild and placable disposition of the Italian bee is a most obvious advantage, commending them to our favorable consideration, and well calculated to render bee culture a more satisfactory and agreeable employment. There are a great many persons deterred from keeping the common bees on account of their irascibility; whereas, if they would get the Italian bee they could manage them with impunity, because the Italian bees very rarely sting, and usually only when they have been accidentally or designedly irritated. The common bees are not unfrequently become exceedingly troublesome, and sometimes dangerous, but nothing of the kind need be apprehended from the Italians. Even when mingled together in the same hive, the common bees retain and manifest their irritability, and the Italians their placableness, showing that the traits in each are peculiar and natural.

The Italian bees are much more active in all their movements than the common bees. You will see them working with greater energy to gather honey, when at the same time you will see the common bees in perfect idleness.

When the weather is too cold for the common bees to leave their hive in search of stores, you will see the Italians working almost as vigorously as if it was in the middle of the summer.

Mr. J B. asserted, in his article, that the Italian bee is one size larger than the common bee. This is a mistake; there is no difference in the size of the two species.

Mr. J. B says that I am a juvenile bee keeper, which is so, compared to the time he has been engaged in the bee culture; yet, I am old enough in the culture of the bee to assert that he knows but very little on the subject. He is very jealous of the introduction of the Italian Royalty into Salem, and well he may be.

W. F. Shultz, Esq, imported the first Italian queens that were ever brought to this place, last summer, and he designs importing more next spring. He also has the agency for the Langstroth patent bee hive.

In my next article I will take up the subject of the Italian queen and the Langstroth hive. J. W. H.

A LARGE DOCKET.—The civil docket of New Hanover, at the Fall Superior Court just closed at Wilmington by Judge Merrimon, we learn numbered 700 suits, besides the many criminal cases on docket.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—A gentleman showed us yesterday a counterfeit hundred dollar note, United States currency which is so very near like the genuine article that it is hard to detect the difference

We caution the public against taking $100 bills on any bank before being sure that they get them from a reliable person. It would be safe, at any rate to take them to a bank and have them identified. The note before us has the "t" in the word "maintain" made like an "i"—in the right hand lower corner. Progress.

Terrible Hurricane.—Advices from Turk's Island state that it was leveled, on the 30th ult., by a terrific hurricane, destroying over 800 houses. Over 2,000 persons are rendered houseless and homeless and are almost naked.

Over 120,000 bushels of salt were swept away. Six foreign and twelve island crafts lost with twenty of their crew.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A Los Angelos dispatch says a fierce fight has occurred between the citizens and a murderous band of Indians in the vicinity of Hardensville, in which fifty of the latter were killed.

ST. LOUIS Oct. 24.—Late Montana advices state that fifty Sioux Indians recently attacked an encampment at the mouth of Milk river and after five hours' fighting were repulsed with a loss of 21 killed. Four whites were killed and several wounded.

Tremendous Explosion at Porte au Prince.

On the 12th ult at Porte-au Prince, the State powder magazines, three in number, containing nearly two thousand kegs of gunpowder, with a countless number of projectiles, chained shots and bombshells blew up from some accidental cause killing 13 persons and wounding as many more and destroying over one hundred houses.

Persian Sympathy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.

Much excitement exists here among the Irish in consequence of the conviction and sentence to death of McMahon and Lynch, Fenians, in Canada. The Common Council has adopted resolutions stating that, in a spirit of humanity, the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty request the Government of Canada to pardon Lynch and his associates, and expressing the wish that the President will unite in the request.

Diabolical Ingenuity.

One Perrot, a Frenchman, has invented three terribly destructive engines—the first, a three barreled air-gun, firing one thousand bullets a minute, the leaden missives dropping from a hopper, without intermission, into the gun; the second is similar, but mounted on wheels, and the third is a steam locomotive, discharging two pounds weight of projectiles per second, and capable of killing 172,800 men in twenty-four hours, if but one man was dispatched by every hundred shots discharged. Progress.

United States and Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.

Gen. Sheridan, on yesterday, addressed a letter to Col. Sedgwick, commanding at Brownsville, directing him to warn all adherents of any party or pretended government in Mexico that they will not be permitted to violate the neutrality laws between the U. S. and Juarez governments. The instructions will be enforced against the adherents of the so-called imperial government of Mexico, and also against the Ortega-Santa-Anna and other factions.

Another Warning to the Careless.

A terrible disaster occurred in Kickapoo township, Peoria county Illinois, on Tuesday night. Mr. George Glazier undertook to fill a kerosine lamp while it was burning. It exploded setting his house on fire, and so rapidly did the flames spread that three of his children were consumed in the burning building while Mr. Glazier, and his son, were both severely burned, but it is hoped they will recover. Mrs Glazier also had all her clothes burnt from her person, but escaped any serious injury. The house and everything in it was consumed.

CONCERNING PINS.—Fifteen millions pins are said to be daily called for in England, in which two thousand seven hundred and twenty-seven pounds of brass wire is consumed.—Some idea of the consumption of pins may be gathered from the fact that one firm in Birmingham consumes one hundred and fifty tons per annum, or three hundred and thirty-six thousand pounds.

DRIED FRUIT IN TENNESSEE.—The Jonesboro' (Tenn.) Flag, of the 25th ult., says of dried fruit.

"The greatest abundance of this staple has been disposed of to our customers by the farmers during the past week, the price ranging at 50 per bushel for peaches and $2 for apples. Thousands of bushels yet remain unsold many holding their fruit back in the hope that prices will take a rise. The fruit crop has been unusually good this year, while the season has not been surpassed for drying purposes.

The latest Canard out is that of the New York Tribune Washington correspondent, (of course) to the effect that the President and Cabinet, as an electioneering card, have resolved to present a formidable and belligerent bill of damages to Great Britain for outrages committed by rebel privateers. The Government has persistently pressed the claims referred to, all along, and the story of their being especially trumped up at this date is of course pure fiction.—Petersburg Express.

GOVERNMENT TAX ON TOBACCO.—Some idea of the enormous revenue the Government derives from manufactured tobacco through the Internal Revenue law may be gleaned from the tax paid upon the article by the house of P. G. Lorillard, tobacconist, of this city.—From the 1st of October, 1865, to the 1st of October 1866, eleven months, the firm paid into the hands of the Revenue Collector $785,000.—New York Herald.

THE AMOUNT OF LIVE STOCK IN VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA.—From tables just compiled in the Agricultural Bureau at Washington it appears that the live stock now in Virginia may be stated as follows: horses, 175,547; mules, 28,710; cattle, 548,122; sheep, 761,586; hogs, 956,961.

In North Carolina: horses, 99,136; mules, 33,916; cattle, 496,476; sheep, 299,126; hogs, 1,261,758. This exhibit shows a decrease in these two States of about one-third in the live stock of all kinds since 1860.

A cow exhibited at a late fair in Illinois gave a yield of milk during three weeks in the month of June of twenty-nine quarts daily from which was made thirteen pounds of butter weekly. She took the premium distancing all other competitors.

There is a farm in Colorado 18 miles long by 12 wide which pastures 8,000 head of cattle and 6,000 sheep, and last year yielded $80,000 worth of grain. It is worked by Mexican laborers, who are fed and managed by officers like an army.

The latest invention in France is a sort of cartridge, containing ingredients which are capable of extinguishing fire. This is effected by the sudden development of a large quantity of hydrochloric acid gas. The cartridges are thrown on the fire or into the water of the engine. In the latter case it is said that only one tenth as much is needed.

The Jews are not the only sect who entirely support their own poor without throwing them upon public charity. The Quakers and Quakers have always done the same thing.

The population of Texas is rapidly increasing by immigration.

Vermont paid $10,000,000 to suppress rebellion.

The estimate of the tobacco crop of Virginia and North Carolina the present season is 10,000 hogsheads.

The Late John M. Morehead.

At a meeting of the Bar, held in Greensborough at the last term of the Superior Court, suitable resolutions were adopted expressive of sorrow for the death of Ex-Governor Morehead; and the Hon. Thos. Settle, Solicitor, in presenting the resolutions, and asking that they be recorded in the Minutes of the Court, made the following observations:—

May it please your Honor.—I was directed by a meeting of the Bar held here on yesterday to lay before your Honor the resolutions of that meeting, with the request that they be spread upon the Minutes of your Honor's Court.

I inherited, may it please your Honor, reverence and respect for Gov. Morehead, and I trust that I shall be indulged while I recite a few of the many incidents of his eventful life. He was born in Pittsylvania County, Virginia, on the fourth day of July, 1796. His parents removed to Rockingham County, North Carolina, when he was two years of age. They were not slow in discovering that providence had lavished her bounties upon their child, and although in very moderate circumstances, they determined to develop by education his great mental powers.

In those days I learn, that it was a rare thing to meet in Rockingham a man who had studied Latin, and such a thing as a classical school was unheard of. For the want of a better instructer, in 1810-'11, old Mr. Morehead placed his son John with his neighbor and friend, my father, who had studied Latin and Greek for a few months at Caswell Court House, and had just obtained a license to practice law; and there between the teacher and his solitary student, commenced a friendship and intimacy which death alone terminated. He went from my father's care to that of the Rev. Dr. Caldwell, of Guilford County, where he was prepared for College. He joined the senior class and here at College as well as at Dr. Caldwell's; he displayed those same traits of character which afterwards marked his life. At school and college he at once marched to the head of his class, and such was his proficiency in the languages, that he was taken from the senior class when half advanced and made a tutor in the University, and at the commencement in 1817, when his class graduated the faculty awarded him a diploma. Shortly thereafter he commenced the study of law with the Hon. Archibald D. Murphy, and obtained a license to practice in June 1819, and settled in Wentworth, the County-Seat of Rockingham, where he soon obtained a full practice. In 1821, he was elected to the House of Commons from Rockingham; and shortly thereafter, upon his marriage with Ann Eliza, the daughter of the late Col. Robert Lindsay, he removed to Guilford, the place of his residence until his death. In 1826-'27, he represented Guilford County in the House of Commons.—From this period until 1840, he devoted himself to the practice of his profession, in which he was the acknowledged leader in all the courts he attended.

In 1840 as the Whig candidate for Governor he conducted a campaign against the Hon. R. M. Saunders as the Democratic candidate, which was marked by great ability on both sides, and is remembered and spoken of to this day as a battle of giants. The result was, his triumphant election. For his second term he was opposed by a gentleman of no ordinary ability, the late Louis D. Henry, but again, as on all previous and subsequent occasions, when a candidate he proved to be the favorite of the people. Upon the expiration of his term of office as Governor he devoted himself to his private affairs, and only came before the people to plead for great works of internal improvement and objects of charity and benevolence, until 1858-'9 when he again represented Guilford in the House of Commons. It was at that session that I realized the fact which I had often heard from others, that John M. Morehead was the greatest man that North Carolina had ever produced. At that session he and his plans of internal improvement were made an object of vigorous attack by men of much ability. For a time the attack seemed overwhelming, and Gov. Morehead's friends feared that he would not be able to repel it. For five days he sat and received it in silence, but when he arose and as he proceeded with his defence, friend, foe and every body else was struck with amazement.—We could scarcely realize the fact that any man possessed such powers of argument and of eloquence.

His vindication was so complete that even his assailants openly acknowledge it.

In 1860 he represented Guilford in the Senate, and was one of the Commissioners from North Carolina to the Peace Congress at Washington. He was a member of the Confederate Congress. It can be truthfully said of him that he never sought office; indeed, he seems to have had an aversion to holding office. I suppose that Gov. Morehead has left but little written material from which his history can be gathered; he never spoke or wrote for display, but always to accomplish some object, and we have only to look at North Carolina to read his history. We read it in her works of Internal Improvement from the mountains to the sea-board.

You cannot look at your magnificent institutions for the care and protection of your deaf dumb blind and insane without remembering the eloquent efforts of John M. Morehead in their behalf.

North Carolina has produced some few men who were doubtless the superiors of Gov. Morehead in certain departments Judge Pearson, Judge Ruffin and Mr Badger were, I suppose, his superiors in legal learning. Perhaps others were more accurate in political information, but taking him all in all, he was by far the greatest man North Carolina has ever produced. His private life is as well worthy of imitation as his public life. He was a man of the strictest morality. He took a bright view of life, was happy and contented himself and tried to make others so. I well remember an expression used by him the last time I saw him. The conversation had turned for some time upon the troubles which now surround our country, when Gov. Morehead dismissed the subject with the remark, that "I always was a great Providence man I leave all these things to Providence, well assured that he will bring good out of it yet." It was doubtless that principle that made him all that he was.

I now ask your Honor to direct that the resolutions passed by the bar be spread upon the Minutes of this Court.

The National Express Company.—The many friends of this enterprise will be interested to learn the action of the stockholders at their recent meeting in this city. In the first place it was determined to reduce the capital stock of the company from $4,000,000 to $1,000,000 thereby reducing the par value of each share from $100 to $25. It is believed that all of the stockholders will be willing to pay up to this extent. If such should be the case the amount thus paid in will pay all of the outstanding debts of the company and enable it to proceed uninterruptedly.

It was further determined by the stockholders' meeting to issue $600,000 of new stock on which the company guarrantee a dividend of eight per cent. The money raised upon this stock is to be invested and held as a fund to meet accidents and emergencies. The company are sanguine of eventful success.

Richmond Times.

The account given in the Philadelphia papers of the luxurious style in which the distinguished banker Jay Cooke, travelled from Philadelphia to Sandusky seems to eclipse anything coming properly within the bounds of aristocracy, either in this country or in England. The elegant special car [illegible] the great buyer and seller of national securities was a superb affair having all the conveniencies of a well appointed dwelling—a porch in the rear where several may sit and take the air free from dust; an elegantly furnished saloon or parlor with sofas, tables and mirrors; a sleeping apartment, where sofa seats are quickly transformed into easy couches; a dining-room with extension tables and all the necessary et ceteras; a pantry well supplied with substantials; wash rooms, &c.

Postal Money Orders and Banker's Drafts.

A clerk of one of the business houses of the city was sent out recently to inquire the price of a draft of $1,800 on California. He ascertained that it would be three per cent or $144. His principal directed him to go to a well known banker to see if better terms could be obtained. The clerk mistaking the name given him called on Postmaster Kelly, and was informed that his money could be sent by post-office orders for $24. This was an unexpected condition of affairs; money orders had not been thought of, but after due consideration the sum it was proposed to send to California was forwarded by means of these orders. The rate was just one-half of one per cent.—N. Y. Post.

The Russian Tea Trade.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes from Russia:

The overland tea trade which centres in Nijmi is still very great. At one side of the separate city, which is formed by the fair, scattered over a great space, which looks more like a suburban cattle yard, emptied of its beasts, than anything else, you may see great rows of packages in raw cow-hides with the hair inside, sheltered from the weather and sky only by a few layers of matting. In the mud or dust between these rows, stumbling over blocks and board- and waste material, the merchants of the East and West meet each other and transact business in tea, amounting to several million dollars worth in a month.—If you want to see a package of any sample the merchant runs an iron augur through the skin, of which the hair inside immediately closes the aperture, again fetching out a specimen from every side to convince you there is no cheat there.

Brick tea is dreadfully coarse stuff, pressed into brick form, which is bought by the Kirghis and Kalmucks of the steppes.

Yellow tea is yellow in the leaf, and yellow as drank, with a characteristic smell which is precisely like hay.

These are the two kinds which do not find their way into the European and American markets. The latter is delicious. A case of it, worth five or six hundred dollars, was presented to Mr. Fox.

Tea is drank at morning, noon and night in Russia, and the Americans are all in love with it. It seems to me better than that which is commonly drank in the States.

TOBACCO SALES IN DANVILLE — Tobacco in loose parcels is coming into the Warehouse, pretty freely. We have noticed for the last two or three days, quite a number of wagons loaded with the weed, standing about the Warehouse in the early morning. This tobacco is all of the new crop. The article is in demand and the prices paid generally good. We note some of the sales:

On the 24th, some of the parcels sold at these figures: $12. 10, 15, 25, 50, 36, 17, 22. 16, 25. 13, 50, 42, 56 and 50 dollars per hundred. On the 25th, at $10, 85, 27, 15; 23, 20, 12, 24, 42, 29 and 18 dollars.

Among a lot of beef cattle which arrived in Lynchburg on Friday destined for Baltimore were:—One steer weighing 4400 lbs; another weighing 4200; a third weighing 4100, and several which range between 3500 and 4000. They were shipped by John H Glass, a butcher of Alexandria and fed by Glenby & Trolenger of Pulaski county.

The Freedman's Bureau official report says that in the parish of Concordia, Louisiana, 42,000 acres were planted in cotton, and that the yield therefrom was only 7,000 bales. The report adds that there will be great suffering among the agriculturists during the coming season.

THE CORN CROP.—A Washington dispatch says: "The Agricultural Department have reports from various parts of the country establishing the fact that notwithstanding the recent heavy rains and early frosts there will be the largest corn crop ever produced in America."

The National Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The following proclamation has just been issued:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A PROCLAMATION.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, has been pleased to vouchsafe to us as a people another year of that national life which is an indispensable condition of peace, security and progress. That year has, moreover, been crowned with many peculiar blessings. The civil war that so recently closed among us has not been anywhere reopened. Foreign intervention has ceased to excite alarm or apprehension; intrusive pestilence has been benignly mitigated, domestic tranquility has improved; sentiments of concillation have largely prevailed and affections of loyalty and patriotism have widely revived, our fields have yielded quite abundantly; our mining industry has been richly rewarded; and we have been allowed to extend our railroad system far into the interior recesses of the country, while our commerce has resumed its customary activity in foreign seas. These great national blessings demand a national acknowledgment.

Now, therefore, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby recommend that Thursday, the 29 h day of November next, be set apart and be observed everywhere in the several States and Territories of the United States by the people thereof as a day of thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God, with due remembrance that "in His temple doth every man speak of His honor."

I recommend, also, that on the same solemn occasion they do humbly and honestly implore Him to grant to our National Councils, and to our whole people, that Divine wisdom which alone can lead any nation into the ways of all good.

In offering these national thanksgivings, praises and supplications, we have the Divine assurance that "the Lord remaineth a King forever. Them that are meek shall He guide in judgment, and such as are gentle shall He learn His way. The Lord shall give strength to His people; and the Lord shall give to His people the blessing of peace."

L. S. In witness whereof I have here unto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed, Done at the city of Washington, this the 8th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, 1866, and of the Independence of the United States the ninety-first.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

By the President:

WM. H. SEWARD, Sec'y of State.

A PLAN TO RESTORE THE MAIL SERVICE OF THE SOUTH.

TO THE PEOPLE OF VIRGINIA, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Florida and Texas:

Having recently returned from the South, I am well aware of the great inconvenience to which the Southern people are subjected on account of mail facilities. This is to a great extent owing to the oath with which contractors are required to comply, there being but few men in the South who can take it. Having conferred with the proper authorities, and obtained their approval, I find that this difficulty can be obviated and the mails established upon every route at the South, and at the highest rates admissible for the people of either North or South. Being a National Union man, (late of North Carolina,) by which I meanJone that is alike opposed to the heresies of the extremists North and South, I can take this oath and thus form the connecting link between the Southern people and the United States Government. This I propose to do and to establish mails on every route at the South now destitute of them, as follows:

Any person who is desirous of becoming a contractor will address me at once, stating the route or routes for which he wishes to become contractor, (stating the extreme points to be connected, which of course, should be on some route heretofore established.) I will then contract for such route or routes in my own name, and let the parties have them at a discount of 2½ per cent., on the annual amount for carrying the mails on said route or routes: This arrangement will secure the route to the subcontractor substantially the same as if it were his own contract, and frequently at a better price than could be contained in the usual way where there is so much competition.

My per centage or mileage as above, will not be required until the end of the first quarter.

The first applicant for a route or routes, judging by the postmark on the letter of application, will have the preference, other things being equal.

Persons when making application should send a guaranty signed by at least two guarantors.* The guaranty should be certified to by a postmaster or a judge of a court of record †—Applicants can, if they desire, obtain blank forms, printed by the Government, by addressing either the undersigned or the 2nd Assistant Postmaster General, Geo. W. McClellan, who will take pleasure in giving all the information that may be desired.

As I am recognized as principal in this matter, payment must necessarily come through me. I can, however, give the parties drafts on the Sixth Auditor of the United States Treasury for all the quarters for which the contract may have been awarded, and these can be presented one at a time as they fall due, and the money drawn substantially the same as if the parties were bona fide contractors. In this case the expenses [two and a half cents] should be paid by or before the expiration of the first quarter after the commencement of service; otherwise payment for this quarter will be drawn by the undersigned, expenses deducted, and the residue, with drafts for the remaining quarters, forwarded to the parties carrying the mails. If persons prefer, I will draw and forward their money at the end of every quarter, without extra charge. I would, however, prefer that they accept the drafts, in order that they may have the matter in their hands.

It would be a source of much gratification to me if I be the means of extending mail facilities to the Southern people. Their attention is therefore respectfully called to this matter. As I am not required to cut down, through competition, it would doubtless be to their interest to make speedy application, before any modification is made in the test oath in order that they may obtain these routes at the highest rates admissible.

Persons confiding to my care may rely upon fair dealing All accepted bids will be entered upon the books of the Post Office Department, where they will be open for inspection.

All letters relative to the foregoing should contain a stamp for answer, and be addressed,

BRYAN TYSON,
Box 1000, Washington, D. C.

REFERENCES, [by permission:]—G. W. Sanson, D. D., L. D., President Columbia College; Hon. Charles Mason, President National Democratic Executive Committee.

*FORM OF A GUARANTY.

The undersigned, residing at ———, State of ———, undertake that if the bid for carrying the mail on the route No. ———, [if the No. be not given it is not essential,] be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall enter into the required obligation, or contract, to perform the contract with good and sufficient sureties.

Dated: ———

†FORM FOR CERTIFICATE.

The undersigned, postmaster at ———, State of ———, certifies under his oath of office that he is acquainted with the above guarantors and knows them to be men of property and able to make good their guaranty.

Dated: ———.

☞ If it is not convenient for an acting postmaster to fill out the certificate, an old one will answer.

☞ Editors throughout the South will give the foregoing two insertions and forward bill with a copy of paper to the undersigned Those giving two or more additional insertions will be entitled to a copy of my book, "A Ray of Light," the price of which by mail is $2.

The attention of the press, and particularly of those papers which are publishing Mr. Tyson's "Plan to Restore the Mail Service of the South," is called to the following card lately received from him:

To Persons Desiring Mail Routes.

Persons who have deterred from making application for mail routes, thinking from what is set forth in my advertisement that the terms will be too low, should hesitate no longer but make immediate application and see if I can not do considerably better for them than is set forth. I have done this for some and can also for others; therefore make application at once.

Editors who have inserted my advertisement will please make the following change. I desire the clause "which will be about 25 cents" * * * "a tri-weekly mail" erased.

Editors throughout the South will confer a favor by publishing foregoing.

All applications relative to having post routes changed, post offices established or postmasters appointed, will receive prompt attention by being addressed to

BRYAN TYSON,
Box 1000, Washington, D. C.

The Southern Hepatic Pills.

MADE and sold by G. W. DEEMS, the discoverer, who has removed to Baltimore, Md., where he can have access to the purest and best medicines on the most favorable terms. He will always keep on hand a large supply, and will sell to his customers, wholesale and retail, on the shortest notice.

Where these Pills are known, especially in the Southern States, where they have been circulated so extensively, they need no recommendation their merits are well known by their results.

We thank our customers for the liberal patronage given us heretofore, and hope they will continue to favor us by sending their orders to G. W. Deems, No. 28 South Calhoun Street, Baltimore, Md., where they will be promptly attended to. Price 25 cts. per box. $2.50 per dozen. He will also keep on hand a supply of

for the cure of Fever and Ague, and all other chills and fevers.

This Remedy comes in contact with the poison that causes the disease, and utterly destroys it in one day, if used strictly according to the directions accompanying each box. Of the number of cases that have used them, not one has failed to produce an immediate cure, as far as we have heard. This is certainly one of the most remarkable remedies ever brought before the public. A full description of it will accompany each box. This is the very thing for the southern climate.

The very high prices of the medicines of which they are composed compels us to fix the prices at one dollar for a package that will cure the worst case in a few day. We can send them to any point in the United States.

He will also keep on hand a supply of a certain cure for rheumatism, sprains, bruises, cramps, pain and weakness in the back and joints, toothache, numbness, frozen limbs, burns, inflammation, tumors, eruptions of skin, wounds swellings, sore eyes, hoarseness, sore throat, bronchitis, nervous headache, &c.

It is a most effectual remedy for the most of the diseases of HORSES—spavin, bruises, strains, swellings, wounds, sore backs, sore back, sore eyes. Price 25 cts. per bottle. $2.50 per dozen.

At the above rates they can be sent by mail or express to any point in the United States. The cash must accompany the order. Dealers can have any of these Medicines at 50 per cent. discount by the gross.

☞ Sold by the Druggists every where, and by Mr. C. A. WINKLER, Salem, N. C.

NEW SOUTHERN MUSIC BOOK.

Just Published:

THE ANCHORA

OF THE

Richmond Collection of Sacred Music

By E. M. McINTOSH, of Virginia.

Essentially Southern in its main features, Tabor nevertheless contains a choice selection of the best Northern copyright Music. Its author, for four years an officer in the Confederate army, composed many stirring pieces in camp and echoed during its marchings and counter-marchings in Virginia. The dirge used at the funeral of General T. J. Jackson, (Stonewall,) May 17th, 1863, was from his pen, and is included in this collection.

"Mr. McIntosh," says the Richmond Whig, "is well known throughout the South as an author and teacher of finished excellence, with a musical reputation rarely attained by any man of his age in this country. In the South he stands at the very head of church music, no one disputing the position with him."

The book embraces everything of value of Southern or South-Western origin, much of which is now for the first time reduced to a written form. Its variety is great—embracing all metres in use, in every key, and every variety of measure—with a full elementary department and a fine collection of new anthems, set pieces and sentences. It contains nearly 300 closely printed pages, neatly and tastefully gotten up, well printed and bound.

Price $1 25. $12 00 per dozen.

Can be obtained through all booksellers, or will be mailed by the Publishers to any part of the United States, postage free, on receipt of retail price.

Single copies for examination and introduction, sent to any address, postage paid, on receipt of one dollar.
